First Result of Program for Excellence

A view of one of the renovated rooms in School House before the boys arrived.

It is almost a year since the Ridley Program for Excellence campaign began at the Association Weekend in mid-October last year. By the time you read this article, $4,200,000 will have been pledged and bequeathed to the School.

This is a wonderful achievement and considerably more than has ever been raised in similar campaigns by other independent schools. However, we are still considerably short of our target of $5,000,000. Although our devoted canvassers have done their best, there are still many of you who have not made your decision to financially support the campaign. Others, we know, have unfortunately not been personally contacted. If you are in either of these groups, we hope you will read the campaign literature, realize Ridley does need and merit your support and make your contributions now.

The maid's quarters going . . .

Since our last report, the Los Angeles Branch has passed its target and a number of others are only percentage points from going over the top.

The campaign executive wishes to take this opportunity to thank each and everyone who contributed most sincerely. In addition, our thanks go out to all of you who canvassed on behalf of the campaign.

The Board of Governors decided in the spring, on the basis of the results at that time, to begin the renovation program incorporated in the Campaign. In addition, they approved the building of the Resource Centre which is the only new construction which is planned.

Our cover picture shows the first result of the Program for Excellence. After 68 years, the renovation of the living quarters in School House began about the 1st of July. A major portion of the second flat was totally gutted and new accommodation for 23 boys has been created. Each two boy room is carpeted, with new wardrobes and desks, new lighting, windows and doors. Mr. Maurice Cooke has been installed in a new two bedroom apartment in the wing of the second flat leading towards Mr. Wilson's House.

A new Master's common room was created out of the language laboratory and part of the passage way (old library) leading to the Chapel. The Guidance Office was gutted and refurbished with two private interview offices adjoining the reading area. The remainder of the House will have its face-lifting in the summer of 1973.

The maid's quarters almost gone.

The original Maid's quarters including the old kitchen area and the library annex has been demolished in preparation for the construction of the new Resource Centre.

A new Biology laboratory is now under construction between the Great Hall and the boiler room. It will be roofed over shortly but will not be in use until the fall of 1973.

Construction of the Resource Centre should begin in November with total completion before September 1973.

The Dean's House will be renovated next summer to accommodate the administrative offices on the lower floor and a three bedroom apartment on the second floor for the Gooderham Housemaster. The existing Science laboratories in the basement of the Great Hall are also scheduled to be refurbished next summer.

The work of modernizing Gooderham House and bringing Merritt House up-to-date for the Seventies will be accomplished in following years.

Headmaster's Message

(From Acta Ridleiana 1972)

People cannot refrain, at cocktail parties and such like occasions, from setting me the same old essay question: "What similarities can you find between the English and Canadian scenes?" The question is only intriguing because it implies that similarities are more desirable than differences, and that the discovery of a similarity will be a matter of conversational interest. I disagree. In response to the question, I switch on a set of remarks which echoes hollowly in my mind. Of course there are similarities: a bright schoolboy from Australia, who has never been to either England or Canada, could write a more riveting essay than I could on the topic. Probably, it would also be more accurate!

But it is the difference that interests me. A combination of Fate and the Board of Governors (not absolutely the same thing) has put a stranger to Canada in the hot seat of Ridley. If that stranger does not come to understand the difference between his own world and Ridley, then decisions may be made on false assumptions. Here then are some of the differences which I note.

I have always believed that people are more conditioned by their climate than they realize. The English are less optimistic than the Canadians, and their climate explains why! But in a deeper sense, the climate imparts rhythms to the year, and rhythms to the life of the School. September in Canada is not the end of the summer, and yet school reassembles at that time and the disciplined life falls heavily on shoulders that have been bronzed by months of carefree living. Through October, the summer dream fades only slowly. Last Fall (which I know was exceptional), I never watched one game of football in the rain. But then suddenly, the gods shout: "Enough". The motor begins to hum in the hockey rink, no boy wanders across the field unless he is a determined smoker. The winter siege begins. Even here, in St. Catharines, a long lasting snow scene settles. During this time of the year, there is a sense of confinement which becomes oppressive as the March winds continue to blow deep drifts against the snow fences. This should be the time for a crescendo of indoor events. But it can be a time when hope runs low, and time is a needle on a much played record.

This past year, the siege ended slowly; and April and May have been uncharacteristically recognizable as April and May to any Englishman. But there still comes a day when suddenly the fields are populated once more, and the windows are thrown open, and amplified sound shakes out the blossom from the trees. Summer is here, and the storm frames are taken down from cottage windows in Muskoka. The school year is almost over (much, much earlier than in another place) and it is merely a matter of playing out time before the total abandonment to the summer way of life. All this is different. It brings different patterns of discipline, different social problems, different tensions and pressures. I have just one regret: that Ridley at its best (through the summer months) is largely populated by other people than Ridley boys.

Then there are differences of general temperament, which can be recognized. Perhaps these differences go back to the distinction between the stay-at-homes of the last three centuries and the adventurers and discoverers. At any rate, from whatever part of old, historical Europe they hail, Canadian families are those who chose to make a fresh start. My own is one of the most recent. So nothing is entirely surprising, nothing is too new to be attempted, nothing is necessarily permanent and nothing is impossible. Fashions come and go with great speed. It is not that life in Canada is quicker, but it has a greater potential for novelty. At a school this means that change has a readier acceptance. To be traditional, as Ridley is, is to react against the Canadian scene. Yet traditional Ridley strikes me as a place that is full of evolutionary change.

The academic scene is also very different. Ridley is truly a North American school, in the design of its courses, the nature of its curriculum and the manner of its academic rewards and penalties. In this one year, I cannot claim to have mastered the academic organization of the school. Comparisons are meaningless; but there are vast and deep differences over what constitutes a cultivated mind. One thing is certainly common to the two academic scenes: the virtue of hard work.

The stranger feels at home when undue politeness is replaced by due frankness. Particularly in discussions with the School Prefects, I have felt at home for many months now! With many other members of the school too, there have been enjoyable and direct exchanges of view.

Living the life of Ridley for a year, my family and I feel that we can absorb the seasonable rhythms, accept the temperamental challenge and come to understand the academic intention. This, for us, has been an intensely exciting year; and thank you all for the friendship and for the challenge that you have offered us.

Younger Old Boys

A letter has been sent to all those who have left Ridley since June, 1969. This is to assure recent Old Boys of a warm welcome to the School at Old Boys' Weekend, and to offer the hospitality of the School to them in the provision of beds and overnight accommodation in the Gymnasium and meals in the School dining hall. We sympathize with the financial circumstances of the student generation! In return, we have asked for more seemly conduct, than has always been the case in the past, from such returning Old Boys.

Ridley College Memorial Chapel "The Golden Years"

Sunday, June the 17th, dawned warm and peaceful in the Canadian summer of 1923. On this day, 50 years ago, the Ridley family gathered for what Dr. Miller described as "one of the greatest days in the history of Ridley College". Since the laying of the corner stone one year before, a beautiful structure of Georgetown and Bedford stone had risen, and was waiting only to be named.

The procession, headed by the choir, contained many names still to be heard and read in the halls of Ridley; names like Mason, Kingstone, Miller, Howitt, Mulock and many others. There were many tears that day, and many hearts were moved as 59 familiar and brave names were read into the great silence of that Chapel. The Lord Bishop of Niagara then dedicated the Chapel to their sacred memory as "a House of Sacrifice, built to commemorate that spirit."

Our Chaplain, The Rev'd. Jack Rose, in the Chapel.

Fifty years have passed since that day, and other wars have claimed other sons; their names too are whispered in the quiet of those grey stone walls. But if the Chapel had remained only a memorial, it would have become just another grey monument. The Chapel contained life. The life of the continuing flow of Ridley youth passing in and out of those hallowed doors. What honour would we bring upon the memory of those names if truth and love, freedom and justice, were not passed on to those in our care? The Chapel stands as a living symbol of man's basic needs, and man's basic rights, and in this way gives more glory to those 59 souls than a thousand crosses.

Many things happen in the Chapel each year to bring the love and truth of God into young hearts. We hope you will be able to join us this year as we rededicate the Chapel message of Fifty Golden Years.

"Have you caught any of their Spirit? I am sure you have. It would be sad, indeed, if in the days to come, that spirit did not enter into the hearts of those to whom they passed on the torch."

—Dr. J. O. Miller

Academic Changes

In an effort towards greater efficiency in the academic administration of the School, several changes have been made. The academic departments have been reduced to five with the following heads: English, Ross Morrow; Languages, Ray Nield (replacing Alan Staples); Mathematics, Nat Caters (replacing Frank Hanna); Science, David Wilson (replacing Tony Fowler who is returning to England); and Social Studies, Bob Stanley. Mr. Wilson, who is also the Director of Academics will represent such subjects as Music, Art, Theology and Guidance on this committee of department heads. The Studies Committee will consist of these department heads as well as the Heads of subjects.

Specific areas of responsibility have been established for these committees by the Headmaster and they are expected to meet regularly to formulate the policy and administer the academic life of the School.

Valete

It seems that at the end of every School year Ridley loses a few valuable staff members and this year was no exception. The nurse in the Upper School, Miss Valarie Greensides, is leaving after two years of service for that best of all possible reasons; she is to be married. The Lower School has lost Miss Stephanie McGregor who has left to undertake further studies.

The music programme is in new hands too as Mr. Dean Cooper, an outstanding pianist from New York, who has been helping in the Lower School, returns to his studies at the University; John Butler, the energetic organist and choir director of the Upper School has left the school. Another enthusiastic young man, Ken Chipman, a master who taught Man in Society and History courses in the Upper School and coached several teams with vigour and considerable expertise, will be travelling in Europe for the coming year.

The Head of the Science Department in the Upper School, Tony Fowler, decided to return to his native England after spending six years at Ridley. An active sportsman (cricket and soccer), he made a strong classroom contribution.

The grand old man of Ridley, Major Cockburn will not be among us either. A master with fifty-one years of service to Ridley, "Co" will be living close to the school and we expect to see his wife Hazel and him around the school a great deal in the future.

Harris - Keon Hockey School

The Billy Harris - Davey Keon Hockey School operated this year from 10 July to 20 August. The starting date was two weeks later than last year.

Approximately 1,000 boys were in attendance over the seven week period. This was an increase of some 200 over last year, with 195 boys and staff being in attendance for the last two weeks.

Because of renovations the hockey school was fed and accommodated in the Lower School with Arthur Bishop House being used for additional accommodation. The Hockey School was particularly pleased with the dormitory accommodation for the younger boys in the Lower School. The stoves in the Lower School kitchen were replaced prior to the hockey school opening and a new dishwasher finally arrived two weeks later after strike and transportation problems.

With last year's experience the rink operation went smoothly even though the maintenance staff had to cope with the eccentricities of two new compressors. An ice edging machine was also purchased and paid for itself by reducing the amount of labour needed to maintain the ice. A short violent rain and wind storm in late July lifted some shingles off the rink roof and as a result the end of the rink became a miniature swimming pool for a few hours.

All in all the operation went smoothly and credit must again go to our caterers, Beaver Foods, and to our maintenance and grounds staffs for their sterling efforts in making this past summer a success. Our thanks also go to the Hockey School itself for their co-operation and understanding throughout the summer.

From The Umpire's Launch

Like the "Titanic" — it can't happen here; but it did.

Last year a broken pin put Ridley out of the Princess Elizabeth Challenge Cup at Henley-on-Thames. This year a member of the crew inadvertently went for a swim at the wrong time.

On Thursday, 29 June, Ridley defeated King's School, Chester, by $3\frac{1}{2}$ lengths in 7.05, the best time of the day in that division for the one mile, 550 yard course. On the same day Brentwood School of Victoria, B.C. won over Bryanston School by over $3\frac{1}{2}$ lengths in 7.32. Brentwood had beaten Ridley by a deck earlier in the summer in the heavy eights at the Canadian School Boy Championships in St. Catharines.

The Heavy Eight debarking after their race with King's School, Exeter at Henley.

Both schools had had a bye on the Wednesday at Henley.

At 2.40 p.m. on the Friday they met in the semi-finals for the Princess Elizabeth. I happened to be in the Umpire's Launch for this race. It was an interesting vantage point, except that, of course, we had to stay behind the last boat. As Ridley soon gained a commanding lead, it became difficult to see our boat clearly. Approaching the stands Ridley had a lead of five lengths, about 100 yards. Suddenly our number three caught a crab, as the result of a momentary black-out, and fell out of the boat. He swam to the boom at the side of the course and was pulled into the launch.

The crew continued the race, which they won by $2\frac{1}{2}$ lengths, despite their uneven sided oar-power. They were disqualified in accordance with the Henley "1902 Rule" that all who start in a race must finish in the boat. This rule is unique to the Royal Regatta, but it is there.

In Saturday's final, Kent School (U.S.A.) won the Princess Elizabeth over Brentwood by half a length.

The Ridley crew were: Dorland, Weinstein, Crassweller, McElheny, ma., Powell, mi., Szczucinski, MacLachlan, ma., MacKay, ma. (stroke) and Watlington (cox). Their average weight was 182 lbs. The subs were Fennell, Hazell, ma. and Snider. With the boys were Carl Dorland, Neill Campbell (coach) and Dr. John Stewart. There also from the School were: Bob Fennell (49), Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Hazell, their daughter and their son, Richard, Dr. Ronald MacKay, Don Naylor and his sons, Don and Gord, Dr. G. W. Powell and his son, Randy, and Dr. Stewart's son, Willie.

Among other Ridleians seen during the Regatta were Dacre Lennard (45), Mr. and Mrs. Joe Penney (47), Drew Ogilvie (68), Clive Caldwell (71), Geoff Browne (72) and Campbell Richardson (73).

At the trials for representation at the World Youth Rowing Championships, the Ridley crew was chosen to represent Canada, with the exception of the cox, who was a Bermudian and one oar, who were replaced by two Ontario boys.

In the Championships, held in Milan, Italy, this crew finished eighth overall in the standings.

A Report from Henley

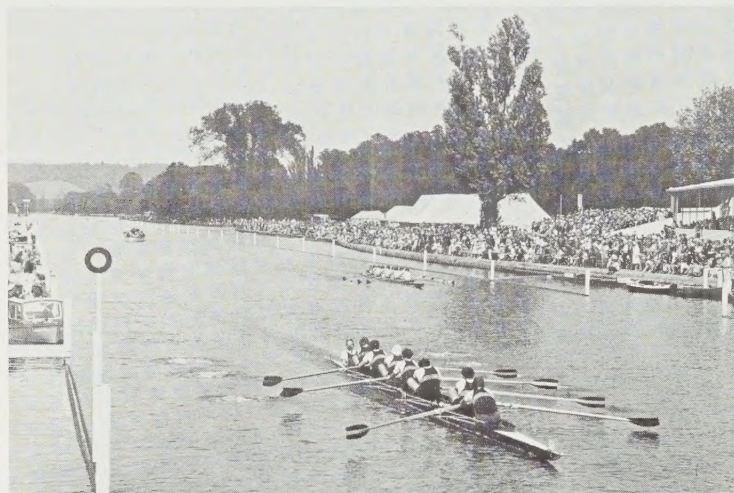

(Extracts from a letter written by 'JOE PENNEY' (47), one of Ridley's keen U.K. Old Boys to his classmate Sam Woodruff of St. Catharines).

"We saw the Ridley - Brentwood Race — I saw the finish and Adrienne from the stands, saw the disaster. Her description of the incident, in one word 'magnificent' — to describe how seven survivors rallied and swung into a rowing stroke of superlative quality. The whole few thousand spectators, after a few seconds of awe-inspiring silence roared their approval. One could not help it. Even the most prim old ladies were jumping up and down (I'm still hoarse). When they came up to the post they were quite the finest crew I have seen on the water — and as an oarsman I have seen a few. Even 'Captain Oates' was cheered and clapped as he was picked up by the Umpire's launch. The School should be grateful to the unwilling sacrificial lamb because whilst it might be argued that he cost them the Princess Elizabeth Challenge Cup '72, it is a fact that he was the instrument of burning the name Ridley into the memories of a lot of Englishmen with indelible respect. As for the cup — it was morally the School's. Ridley, with seven men (a severe handicap make no mistake) even leading Brentwood by 3 lengths at the Post — and I think pulling away. Kent beat Brentwood by only a canvas. However, I think it best for the future that all eight men stay in the boat or we might be known as the Ridley seven and certainly the sort of moral victory achieved this year is a 'once only' affair. (Last year 'practiced' nicely off-stage at the $\frac{1}{4}$ mile — This year performed to perfection in front of the Enclosure).

I was looking at the 'gates' on the eight and I must say I thought they looked a little light. They seemed to be made of an alloy rather than bronze or brass as is usually the case and which will not easily distort.

Our boys are very strong — and a No. 3 is often selected as one of the powerful oars. I think it is not impossible that his sheer power distorted the gate and this would account for his catching a 'crab' on Thursday and the opening of the gate on Friday. There are not many crews which can mount the power of this year's Ridley crew and I doubt any Italian crews — men or boys — for whom such gates were designed.

The 'Magnificent Seven' crossing the finish line ahead of Brentwood School of Vancouver at Henley.

'Charlie', my old boatman — whom I got to look after the crew originally and who has done so now for 4 years, advised the Coach last year to change the gates — and Charlie knows his onions.'

Women's Guild

Annual Report

The Ridley College Women's Guild includes mothers, wives, sisters and guardians of all Ridleians past and present. Our object is to support the School and promote a fellowship among the members. There are branches in Toronto, London, Grand Valley and the Niagara Peninsula. In all other areas the Field Secretary-Treasurer is the contact. This year Mrs. A. H. Hansen, 299 Main Street, St. Catharines is the new Field Secretary-Treasurer.

A cheque for $330.23 was given to the Scholarship Fund as well as money given from the separate Guilds. Funds were raised by talent money, parties, sale of scarves, flight bags and umbrellas. The various Guilds have made donations to chapel flowers, the libraries, magazines, choir and debating prizes.

Members of the Niagara Peninsula branch provided a buffet supper for parents and friends before the School play in November.

Please Note: There will be no annual reports sent to members this year.

Ridley Boat Club

The summer of '72 marked yet another first for Ridley rowing: the inception of the Ridley Boat Club. The objective of the club was to form a team made up of Ridley Graduates who had rowed on Ridley's championship heavy eights over the past five years. The response was excellent, and the club included members from each of those five crews. They were as follows: Moore Newell '68, stroke of Ridley's first winning crew — The Canadian Champions; Larry Woods '69, Captain of Ridley's '69 U.S. Schoolboy Championship crew; Bob Schmon '70, stroke of that same crew; John Weinstein, bow of the '69 crew; Warren Aziz '71, stroke of the '70 Henley Champions; Bill Verity '71, seven man in the American and Canadian Championship crews of his senior year; Brian Love '71, six man of that same crew; and Rich Curry '71, perpetual winner of the 'Stokes Seeds' race. Also back to train with the club was Jim Butterfield, who, was bound for the XXth Olympiad in a single scull bearing Bermudian colours.

The club's first season was, all in all, an excellent beginning. Disappointment existed only because the goals of the club were set so high: to qualify its members for the Olympic Games in Munich, West Germany. Tremendous efforts were made by everyone, coaches, organizers and oarsmen to attain this goal, but some mountains cannot be climbed quickly. The successful Olympic athlete has dedicated his life towards one ultimate end — high achievement in international competition. He doesn't decide to start training six months or nine months before the Games open. He must be willing to discipline himself into a strict training routine for years. Then, perhaps with his best effort, he can become the best.

The Ridley Boat Club had no visions of winning a medal in the eights competition at Munich. What it did have in mind was qualifying one boat, in any of the seven events, to represent Canada abroad. Unfortunately, the progress of the program was marred by the inevitable 'trial and error' procedure the club was forced to follow, having no example to follow.

Larry Woods and Brian Love had to take fourth place out of fifth in their race. A good effort was made in the straight pairs by Warren Aziz-Bill Verity and Bob Schmon-Moore Newell, and though the latter pair was victorious in their heat, they were doomed by inexperience in the finals and fell to defeat.

The straight four, which was the club's best chance for an Olympic berth, showed well in the heat, but in the final against the western crews was defeated. Thus, the club was without representation in Munich. The crews from the west coast that were successful had been training from September through August for four years. They were not to be easily beaten. Even now as the Games have ended, we notice that not one of the Canadian crews made the finals. The road to victory in elite rowing is a long and hard one!

The season was filled with successes at the local level. Victories in weekly regattas all summer culminated in a fine showing at the Canadian Henley in August. Medal winning crews in the Junior events included the cox pair of Love, Woods and coxwain Peter Cookson; the straight four and the cox four, which were both rowed by Schmon, Newell, Aziz and Verity with Holiday cox in the latter boat; and the eight with Curry and Rick Starkey joining the above mentioned oarsmen. The total of victorious boats was four, and the Ridley Boat Club finished first in the junior points championship, and third in the overall points championship, with only nine oarsmen.

The future of the Ridley Boat Club must hinge on the interest shown by the rowing graduates. Neil Campbell and Jack Nicholson offer the finest coaching any young man could ask for. The outlook then, must be optimistic. The club has started at a high level and can only continue to ascend.

Finally, not enough can be said about the individuals who devoted so much of their time and energy to the interests of the rowing club. The unselfishness shown by these men was outstanding and was certainly a key factor in the success the club enjoyed.

The oarsmen of the club wish to especially thank Messrs. Taylor, Schmon and Szczucinski for all their efforts.

R. M. Schmon Jr.

Around The School

For the first time, prefects were appointed in June to serve for the following academic year. Those who accepted Mr. Bradley's offer to serve the School in this office are: Gilroy, Gray I, Hazell ma., McElheny ma., Nadherny, Poole, Woodruff and Wyatt.

The Old Colours, joined by a vigorous group of prospective First Team footballers began their training camp under Bob Stanley and Brian Armstrong's vigilant eyes five days before the opening of term. Captains of this year's squad are Hazell ma. and MacLachlan ma.

The responsibility of helping run the Lower School will fall on the following boys who have been appointed as Duty Boys: Bell, Dinner, Feore, Fischer, Fowle, Patterson, Stevens and Tuttle.

The revised directives of the Ontario Ministry of Education have resulted in some differences in course requirements and option choices for the boys of the Upper and Lower Schools. An article is to appear in "Tiger" later this year outlining in detail these changes.

The building programme has necessitated a number of changes in School House. The Matthews Library will, for the present academic year, be housed in the Assembly Hall, while the present library will function as a temporary Assembly Hall. Renovation of boys' rooms is well underway and will be completed next summer. The Housemaster of School House, Maurice Cooke, is now ensconced in a splendid new apartment on the second flat wing.
